

From the New Mirror.
A Superb War Poem.
BY CROLY.

The Turkman lay beside the river,
The wind played loose through bow and quiver;
The charger on the bank fed free,
The shield hung glittering from the tree,
The trumpet shawn and atabal
Were hid from dew by cloak and pall,
For long and weary was the way
The hordes had marched that burning day.

Above them, on the sky of June,
Droop as a buckler glowed the moon—
Flooding with glory vale and hill.
In silver sprang the mountain rill,
The shrub in silver bent,
A pile of silver, stood the tent;
All soundless, sweet tranquility—
All beauty, hill, and tent, and tree.

There came a sound—'twas like the gush
When night winds shake the rose's bush!
There came a sound—'twas like the tread
Of waves along the valley's bed!
There came a sound—'twas like the roar
Of ocean on its wintry shore!

"DEATH TO THE TURK!" up rose the yell—
On rolled the charge—a thunder peal!
The Tartar arrows fell like rain—
They elanked on helm, and mail, and chain—
In blood—in hate—in death, were twined
Savage and Greek—mad—bleeding—blind—
And still, on flank, and front, and rear
Raged, Constantine! thy thirstiest spear!

Brassy and pale—a type of doom—
Labored the moon through deepening gloom!
Down plunged her orb—'twas pitchy night!
Now, Turkman, turn thy reins for flight!
On rushed their thousands through the dark!
But in the camp a ruddy spark
Like an uncertain meteor reeled—
Thy hand, brave king, that firebrand wheeled!

Wild burst the burning element,
O'er man and courser, flag and tent!
And, through the blaze the Greeks outsprang,
Like tigers bloody—foot and fang!
With dagger, stab and falchion's sweep,
Delving the stunned and staggering heap—
Till lay the slave, by chief and khan—
And all was gone that once was man!

A waiting on the Euxine shore—
Her chivalry shall ride no more!
There's wailing on thy hills, Altai!
For chiefs the Grecian vulture's prey—
But Bosphorus! thy silver wave
Hears shouts for thy returning brave—
The highest of her kingly line—
For there comes glorious Constantine!

[We have never seen the above fine poem except in manuscript, and we presume that it was never published in this country. It is not in Croly's two volumes of collected works.]

Important Decision.—In the court of Quarter Sessions yesterday morning, Judge Parsons delivered an opinion arresting the judgment in the case of William L. Ashmead, agent of the Wilmington Rail Road Company, convicted some time since of an assault and battery upon George P. Fisher, agent of the North American Mail Company. It appears that Mr. Fisher took passage in the railroad cars for Baltimore, having with him a carpet bag, in which he was carrying letters out of the United States Mail. This came to the knowledge of Mr. Ashmead, who, as agent of the railroad, which was a mail route, politely requested Mr. Fisher to quit the cars or leave the bag of letters behind; and, upon the refusal of the latter to do so, he forcibly ejected him and his baggage. Upon this state of the facts the prosecution was entered against Mr. Ashmead, and a conviction obtained; but the judgment was arrested yesterday upon the ground that the railroad was created a post route by Congress; that the company was liable to a heavy penalty if they allowed mail to be conveyed over their road out of the United States Mail; and that the defendant, agent of the company, had a perfect right, as indeed it was his duty, to prevent the law from being violated in this particular, and to eject all persons from the cars who should persist in such violation. This decides the right of railroad companies, engaged in transporting the United States mail, in exercising a control over the persons and baggage of the agents of private mail companies so far as to prevent their roads from being used for purposes opposed to the post office laws of the United States. Mr. Ashmead was accordingly relieved from any further attendance upon the court.—Phil. Led.

A soldier who had lost the best portion of his nose in battle, consoled himself with the observation that he should no more be told a thing was as plain "as the nose on his face."

If any man doubts that "public opinion governs the world," let him look at two men going out to shoot each other for fear of what people will say in case they refuse to do so.

A sectarian, writing the life of a deceased divine, says that he early got the world under his feet. That probably means that he was able to go along sooner than babies in general, as the world is under the feet of every person that stands erect.

Fear is the most selfish of all passions. Avarice may pity, and ambition may spare; but fear seeks for nothing but personal safety at any expense to others.

Prospectus FOR THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE AND APPENDIX.

These works have such a wide circulation, and have been so universally approved and sought after by the public, that we deem it necessary only in this prospectus to say that they will be continued at the next session of Congress, and to state, succinctly, their contents, the form in which they will be published, and the prices for them.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two houses of Congress. The speeches of the members are condensed to bring them into a readable length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given in the mover's own words; and the yeas and nays on all the important questions. It is printed with small type—brevier and nonpareil—on a double royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing 16 royal quarto pages.

The Appendix is made up of the President's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the Government that accompany it, and all the long speeches of members of Congress, written out or revised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe, and usually makes about the same number of pages.

As some persons who may receive this prospectus may wish to subscribe for our regular papers, through which we speak to members of Congress and their constituents, we will here state that we publish a daily paper at $10; a semi-weekly paper at $5; and a weekly paper, with a complete index to it, at $3 a year, payable in advance.

TERMS.
For the Congressional Globe, $1 per copy.
For the Appendix, $1 per copy.
Six copies of either of the above works will be sent for $5; twelve copies for $10; and so on in proportion for a greater number.

Payments may be transmitted by mail, postage paid, at our risk. By a rule of the Post Office Department, postmasters are permitted to frank letters written by themselves, containing money for subscriptions.

The notes of any bank, current where a subscriber resides, will be received by us at par.

To insure all the numbers, the subscriptions should be in Washington by the 10th of December next, at farthest.

No attention will be paid to any order unless the money accompanies it.

PROSPECTUS OF THE "DISTRICT DEMOCRAT."
(OXFORD, NORTH CAROLINA.)
THE undersigned propose to publish in the Carolina, a paper to be entitled the "DISTRICT DEMOCRAT," devoted to Politics, Agriculture, and General Intelligence, provided a sufficient number of subscribers can be obtained to justify them in the undertaking. They deem it unnecessary to enter into a minute detail of their political opinions, but think it will suffice to say, that they are opposed to the political measures of the miscalled Whig Party; believing them to be subversive of our Constitution, dangerous to our civil liberty, injurious to the welfare of our country, and our peace and prosperity as a nation. With such belief, we will oppose by every fair and honorable means, the election of Henry Clay of Kentucky, to the Presidential Chair, as he is the head and leader of that trait policy, and has pledged himself to procure the Federal measures, and carry out to their full extent, the merits of the same. Moreover, having openly pledged himself to tamper with the Constitution, and to destroy or mutilate that power (the Veto) which is now and was created for its safety, we cannot keep from viewing, as must every other true Democrat, his elevation to that seat, which he is now, and has been seeking for so many years, every means in his power, as an era in the political history of our government, that must be regarded by every true patriot with fair and apprehension, for the consequences that must ensue. Such being our opinions with regard to Mr. Clay's political character, we shall hoist at the head of our columns for President and Vice President of the United States, the nominees of the Democratic National Convention, James K. Polk of Tennessee, and George M. Dallas of Pennsylvania; and shall use every fair and honorable means to ensure their election. To do this, we earnestly solicit the hands of the Democrats of the 7th Congressional District, a reasonable and competent support, being more numerous they are better able to support a press than the opposite party; and yet in the District where the Democracy have a majority, the Whigs support 3 newspapers, and they have not a single one with the exception of one small sheet.

Taking these things into consideration, we humbly submit, whether justice to themselves, the cause and principles they profess, and a regard for the credit of the District to which they belong, does not demand at their hands some local vehicle of information on political subjects.
